

ABSTRACT

A pulp packing material comprising: a first layer containing crosslinked pulp as a main component; and a second layer containing non-crosslinked pulp or biodegradable plastics as a main component, which are produced by sheet making, wherein the first and second layers are stuck and laminated onto each other.